

RELATIONSHIP WITH MONEY AND WORK SELF-ASSESSMENT

There is NO requirement to share your details or results to do this assessment, though I am always happy to have your feedback or hear your story if you wish.

- Do you experience frustration, upset or anger about the economic position of your profession?
- Do you struggle with setting a fair fee for yourself?
- Are you inconsistent or undecided with regard to handling payment issues on non-attendance, holidays, late arrival, forgetting to bring money to appointments?
- If someone asks for a reduction, do you give it with little or no discussion?
- Do you feel guilt about charging for your time?
- Are you uncomfortable discussing money with clients, supervisors/mentors or peers?
- Is the handing over of money awkward?
- Do you have a sense that you might be undercharging (or overcharging) for your service?

If you answered YES to any of the above, it is worth exploring your relationship with money further.

You may like to consider one of my options for doing that, or you are welcome to give me a call to discuss what YOU would specifically like. 07989 564660
